Musical Salute: "The Star-Spangled Banner" sung by Mr. Burton Bernard

O say, can you see by the dawn's early light

What so proudly we hailed in the twilight's last gleaming

Whose broad stripes and bright stars through the perilous fight

From the ramparts we watched were so gallantly streaming

And the rockets red glare, the bombs bursting in air

Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there

O say, does that star-spangled banner yet wave

O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!

5:00 p.m. - Tintamarre

A noisy, colorful procession to demonstrate cultural pride, the Tintamarre was developed to encourage Acadians to celebrate their heritage. This is the first to be held in St. Martinville. We will be departing from the Acadian Memorial at 5 p.m. and walk noisily to St. Martin de Tours for mass at 5:30. Noismakers will be left at entry.

5:30 p.m. Commemorative Mass

Eglise Saint-Martin de Tours

Feast of Our Lady of the Assumption, Patroness of Acadians

"We welcome all parishioners and guests this afternoon to St. Martin de Tours Catholic Church as we celebrate the feast of the Assumption of Mary. In the United States, St. Martin de Tours Church is recognized as the "Mother Church of the Acadians." This evening at Mass as we honor Mary on the feast of the Assumption, we will also honor her as the Patroness of Acadians, a title conferred upon her in 1881at the First National Convention of Acadians held in New Brunswick, Canada. We will remember in a special way all Acadian exiles, particularly those who found refuge in Louisiana. They settled many different areas of our State and laid a firm foundation for Louisiana's early economic growth. Our guests at Mass today are the participants of the Tintamarre, an Acadian tradition to demonstrate cultural pride."

Master of Ceremonies, Mr. Jim Olivier

Portraval of Olivier Terriot by members of Thêatre Cadien

Reading for the elder Terriot is Shirley Savoy of Lafayette; for the younger Terriot, Robert Landreneau of Lafayette; and for Peyroux, Jim Viator of New Iberia. Research and content by Christy D. Maraist and Jolene Adam; artistic direction by Earline Broussard.

Synopsis: Of the approximately 3,000 Acadians who came to Louisiana, just about half came in 1785, on seven ships that departed from Nantes, France, or nearby Paimboeuf, and arrived in New Orleans. Henri Peyroux de la Coudreniére, a French pharmacist who had made his fortune in Louisiana, devised a plan to recruit colonists for Louisiana among the Acadian exiles in France, at the expense of Spain. But, Peyroux needed an Acadian partner who could convince the exiles to sign a petition to leave France. In tonight's reading, Peyroux propositions master cobbler Olivier Terriot to collect the signatures required in exchange for a generous reward. Terriot eventually agrees, abandoning his cobblers shop to devote himself entirely to recruitment. Upon their arrival in Louisiana, Terriot confronts Peyroux for his long awaited compensation. Peyroux denies ever having promised a reward to Terriot. Thus, the man largely responsible for the arrival of 1,596 Acadians in Louisiana arrived penniless, but not without the respect and appreciation of his peers. Like the majority of Acadians who arrived in 1785, Terriot settled on the bayou at La Fourche des Chetimacha.
